

Memories of Bygone Years Recall Trials of Coal Industry

1914 Was a Year of Slack Work, Hillcrest Disaster, Closing of Hosmer Mine and Opening of the Great War

File copies of the Fernie Ledger, of June and July, 1914, loaned to the Journal by Mr. George Kellock, contain much of interest concerning the mining towns of the district in those days.

The most sensational and tragic local news feature is the report of the Hillcrest disaster on June 19, 1914, when 189 men perished in the worst mining disaster recorded in Canada. 237 men were on shift at the time and only 48 were rescued alive.

Copies of messages of sympathy from the King and other important personages appear in the Ledger's columns. This disaster left hundreds of children fatherless.

Earlier in the month the Ledger contains the report of the tragic "Empress of Ireland" disaster in the St. Lawrence, while another issue records the closing down of the C.P.R. mine at Hosmer, throwing nearly 600 men out of employment and causing heavy losses to those who had built hotels, stores and residences. Added to the chapter of disasters and misfortune the mines in some towns were working one day a month, so it would appear that June and July of 1914 were considerably worse in many respects than the era of depression at present being experienced in the Pass towns.

And then in August 1914, the Great War opened.

The predominant note is grim, stark tragedy in those issues, though of course there is a brighter side to life, as reported by the local correspondents in the various towns.

There is a touch of humor in a news item from Hillcrest: "Quite a number of oil shacks are in town, but we are inclined to wonder what spirit of generosity it is that persuades these gentry to travel so far from home to accommodate us with snags. Can it be that they regard the gentle and unsophisticated miner as an easy mark. A little care may save a whole lot of worry."

Such a piece of advice shows that human nature is much the same to-day as years ago, and will prove the same a hundred years hence.

These old copies are interesting from a reminiscent viewpoint, and reflect quite vividly the general life of the Pass towns in those days, including social, industrial, sporting, and other phases of activity.

Abolition of Homework

Dr. W. P. Percival, director of Protestant education in Quebec, has advocated the abolition of home lessons. He urges that when the time for school closing comes, the pupils should be allowed to go home and do something else. The present system of having teachers send the children home to learn was condemned and Dr. Percival suggested that all school work should be done in school; not at home. This suggestion is a timely one. Its realization will make the children like school better; they will know that they are not to be burdened with homework after school hours. The suppression of homework, like that of home lessons during vacations, will certainly enable the students to obtain a much-needed rest, and give them relaxation after school, and thus endow them with greater energy on the morrow. The creation of unduly heavy scholastic programs by the addition of home lessons is certainly not progress in education. Good formation of the intellect is not achieved by the hasty cramming of the student's mind at all hours with lessons; and such cramming is certainly bad for the health—Albertan.

Our National Parks

On May 9th of this present year, a Bill to be known as the National Parks Act passed the House of Commons and was shortly afterwards ratified by the Senate and signed by the Governor-General.

This marked the beginning of a new era for the National Parks of Canada. They have now reached that state of importance in the administrative eye which entitles them to a separate Act. Formerly they were simply an afterthought administered under the Dominion Forest Reserve and Parks Act. No longer can they apply be compared with the house which was built upon the sand. The new National Parks Act is the rock upon which will be built a park system of which Canadians for all time will be justly proud, a system which will endure, a system having the stability of a mountain. No longer will the parks boundaries and policy of administration fluctuate with the rise and fall of the various political parties in power at Ottawa, because they can never again be made the political policy of any party, but are the policy, property and pride of each and every individual Canadian in this broad Dominion.

By the former Act all matters affecting parks were under the direct control of the Minister of the Interior through the Parks Branch, and an order-in-council could without the consent or even the knowledge of Parliament establish new parks, relinquish all or part of the present parks, sell or lease any water power, timber, beryl, mining claim, or other commercial concession in the boundaries of any park.

By the new Act, thirty days' notice of any such matter affecting the parks must be published in the Canada Gazette, and then the matter takes the form of a private bill and may be thoroughly discussed by the people's representatives in Parliament before becoming law. Surely a reasonable way of dealing with park areas which belong not to any individual community or province but to the people of Canada as a nation.

It is well that such protection has been thrown around our great and expanding system of National Parks, because as population increases and the country becomes more and more industrialized, efforts to secure portions of National Parks areas for purposes of commercial exploitation become more numerous and harder to resist. Yet they must be resisted if the beauty, and therefore the value, of our National Parks is not to be destroyed.

As water is the life of all landscape pictures, so lakes, waterfalls and rivers are often, and generally, the chief attraction in a National Park. Destroy their natural beauty, and the park itself is largely destroyed. Nevertheless water-power companies become insistent upon securing rights to utilize these water powers for hydro-electric purposes. Already a large area has been taken out of Banff National Park, the Spray Lakes area, for hydro development, and now the hydro interests demand the famous Lake Minnewanka district in the same park.

Once embark on a recognized policy of alienating water-powers in our National Parks for commercial purposes and a precedent is established which will be cited by other interests. Our National Parks are rich in forests. With the waters and mountains they constitute the beauty of the parks; without them there would be little or no water. But the lumbering interests, upon them with envious eyes, and if the water-powers are to be exploited by the hydro companies, why not the forests by the lumbering interests? So, too, some of the National Park areas are believed to be rich in minerals, but what would become of these parks if unsightly mining camps, with their piles of refuse, old derricks, ugly mine buildings, and all that is inseparable from mining camps and towns were allowed to spring up within their borders?

But if the door is opened to commercial exploitation in one direction, it will be well-nigh impossible to stop it in other directions.

The water-powers, the forests and the minerals within our National Parks undoubtedly have a commercial value, but so, too, have the Parks themselves in their natural state of beauty. Commercial exploitation of the forests would in a few years lessen and in time destroy their value. Cutting of the trees would lower and ultimately destroy the lakes, rivers and waterfalls. Mining operations in time would destroy the minerals. Commercial inroads in the National Parks would mean a gradual depreciation in value.

Retention of our National Parks in all their natural beauty will add to their commercial value as magnets which will attract ever increasing numbers of tourists from all parts of the world, while maintaining for Canadians of future generations the delights and benefits of great national playgrounds, places of inspiration, and of health-giving happiness.

It is well, therefore, that the new National Parks Act has become the law of Canada. In this Dominion, as in the United States, we must face the fact that commercialism is the peril of our National Parks system. The almighty dollar, declared by Washington Irving to be the American god, is the obtruding deity. The struggle is between the lower and the higher, the sordid and the ideal.

Speaking for the then president of the United States at the annual opening of the Yellowstone National Park in 1923, Dr. John Wesley Hill said: "Regardless of all facts and figures, arguments, and threats, any plan however meritorious on its face for the commercial exploitation of parks must be very nature of its aims and purposes be immediately doomed to failure. Good projects, bad projects, infinitesimal projects, all must face the same fate, for it is the established policy of the Government that our national parks must and shall forever be maintained in absolute, unimpaired form, not only for the present, but for all time to come. This fixed policy will not be swayed a hair's breadth by any influence, financial, political or otherwise. If rights are granted to one claimant, others must follow; so a precedent must not be established. It would inevitably ruin the entire National Parks system."

Canada can do no less, and if any attempt is made, no matter in what guise, to infringe upon the rights of all the people in their National Parks, they should arise in their might and end any such attempt. The power is now in their hands by virtue of the new National Parks Act.

Seek Lower Rate On Cattle Shipments

Negotiation For Decrease In Transportation Charges On Exports To Britain

Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, is in negotiation with the Atlantic shipping companies and the railways in an effort to obtain a decrease in the transportation charges on cattle exported to Great Britain, which will open up this market to large scale shipments from western Canada.

The negotiations have not proceeded far enough to warrant any forecast of results. Mr. Weir, however, has got to the point where he is advocating an entirely new policy, endeavoring to change the whole basis upon which rates have been imposed in the past.

In regard to the ocean rate, Mr. Weir is endeavoring to have the whole rate basis changed. He wants shipping companies to quote rates by the ton instead of by the head. Such an arrangement would give shippers advantages in shipping stock of various weights. A definite decision in this regard will be reached before long.

The gentleman may or may not have realized this, but at any rate he was wowed by the lengthiness of the title. He made the first remark he could think of. "I—I hope they're all well," he ventured, and hung up.

Keep Highway Open In Winter

No. 1 Highway Between Winnipeg and Brandon May Be Open For Winter Travel

No. 1 highway between Winnipeg and Brandon may be kept open all winter for auto traffic it is stated. To combat the heavy snowfalls that closed the highway early in 1929-30 winter months, the department will probably use two large snow plows of new design, with one of the units stationed at the western end of the highway here and the other working west from Winnipeg. Should the task of keeping the highways not be overly heavy, there is every probability of the Winnipeg-Brandon-Eggleston route being kept open too.

For some years now there has been an effort to secure snow-fighting units that would work effectively on the highways. The Retail Merchants Association and the Board of Trade co-operated for two winters in a work that kept roads into Brandon from neighboring districts open. Since that time the department has been approached to establish a more permanent force for winter road maintenance and plans are now shaping in that direction. In view of the importance and the amount of traffic over the Winnipeg-Brandon highway this route will get first attention in the new scheme for all-year-round traffic.

For Uniform Text Books

Elimination Of Foreign Produced School Text Books Greatly To Be Desired

Reporting intensive activity in the elimination of foreign produced school text books from the schools of the country, the education committee of the Toronto Chamber of Commerce expressed the opinion that there is an ever growing tendency on the part of both the education authorities and the Canadian public to favor wherever possible, text books edited and published by Canadian and British authors and houses.

From a special committee formed in Alberta, came the suggestion, that since the individual provinces have complete charge of education, the provincial ministers of education could probably participate in a round table conference for the purpose of reviewing the text books situation in Canada and of seeking as much uniformity as possible.

Sat On Top Of World

Few Canadians Had This Experience During Eclipse Of Moon

Men who literally sat on top of the world for a moment are described by Dr. Willard G. Fisher, of Harvard Observatory in a report just published on the 1927 moon's eclipse.

These men were a far-dung line of fur traders, trappers, missionaries and hunters in Northern Canada, and at the moment of total eclipse their shadows were exactly on top of the round, black shadow of the earth as it slipped over the face of the moon, 240,000 miles distant.

A 100-inch telescope might have shown there the rough outline of the hills around them cast in the upper edge of the shadow on the moon.

Astronomers wanted to know just how much sunlight passed over this top edge of the world horizontally through the earth's surface atmosphere. To figure this they needed weather, cloud and haze conditions along this rim. George A. Wendt, of the Canadian Westinghouse Company, Limited, established the KDKA short wave broadcast to reach the men on the "rim" by radio.

They were advised two months in advance what the astronomers wanted. Radio was the only way to reach them. Months after the eclipse Dr. Fisher received the report, and now after long computations, their astronomical value has proved up. They show that clouds shut out light horizontally across this top of the world to a height of 2,000 meters, more than a third of a mile. This cloudy layer was almost as opaque as solid earth, and had few breaks.

Commends Development In Transportation

Visitor To Canada Amazed At Railway Facilities In Dominion

Delighted with what he had already seen of Canada and expressing amazement at the developments which have taken place in transportation facilities in the Dominion, Lord Don R. Roepke, "The Examiner" and the "Weekly Courier," of Launceston, Tasmania, left Montreal on the "Canadian National Railway," for Toronto, en route to Vancouver to sail for home.

Radio and telephone connections to and from moving trains were an amazing development to him. Mr. Roepke stated, while the speed of the "International Limited," six hours for the 324 miles journey between Montreal and Toronto, was one at which he had never anticipated travelling over such a distance on any Canadian railway.

CONFERENCE AT LONDON STUDIES WHEAT QUESTION

London, England.—With the reply of the British Government to the preference proposal of Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada, expected soon, the heads of the Imperial Conference settled down to consideration of wheat and other Empire foodstuffs.

The expedients of bulk purchase of wheat and of import boards were considered in a general way and the whole subject was referred to an economic committee, under the president of the board of trade, for consideration.

"It was not just a question of establishing import boards which would buy in the cheapest market, as for instance, purchasing Russian wheat," said one British official recently. "On the contrary, the angle from which the delegates are approaching the problem is how best inter-Empire trade may be improved."

The same economic committee, under the Rt. Hon. Mr. Graham, has been authorized to take steps towards bringing together the British and Dominion manufacturers for a conference.

In considering the wheat problem and with a wealth of information at its command, the committee could not even make an estimate in answer to the oft-asked question: "how much wheat remains in Russia?" Increase of the growth of production by the great wheat-producing countries was reviewed.

The arbitration committee, under Hon. Maurice Dupre, Canadian collector-general, studied proposed reservations in the general arbitration act prepared at Geneva. Under the main reservation the British interests would not submit their inter-Empire disputes to an international court.

N. Z. Butter Exporters

Are Anxious To Know If New Duty Is In Effect

Vancouver, B.C.—Cables from New Zealand stated that butter exporters there are eager to know if the new rates on butter from that country to Canada have come into effect, due to the fact that information received from London indicated that the old rate would remain until negotiations between Premier Bennett and Premier Forbes, now in London, has proceeded further.

It was ascertained from the office of the collector of customs at Vancouver that the new rates of 8 cents preferential rate are now operative. "So far as we are concerned," said an official, "the old rates expired on October 12, when the extension of the Australian trade agreement was rescinded, the new rates becoming immediately effective thereafter."

The resolutions have been forwarded to Dominion authorities.

English Shareholders Angry

Shareholders Of Grand Trunk Stock Have Poor Opinion Of Canadian Politicians

London, England.—In an angry mood, holders of preference shares in the old Canadian Grand Trunk Railway met again to resolve the report of their representative, R. C. Hawkin, on his recent visit to Canada. Finally they appointed a committee of seven to interview Premier R. B. Bennett and present their claims.

Hawkin told the claimants that when France had altered a French loan contract, Chancellor Philip Snowden had protested strongly. But Canada had gone much further than France ever did, in altering the Grand Trunk contract made in London and causing the obliteration of 100 per cent. of an investment. Surely this should come within the spirit of the Imperial conference, he said.

One stockholder spoke of a "damnable bad trick" and another said the expression was not strong enough. "If there is a lower form of human life than that of a politician I do not know it," exclaimed a third. "I know Canada. I have met politicians and farmers, and they are downright crooks. The only thing is to boycott goods."

Tells Of Slavery Conditions

Lady Simon Says Liberia Commission Report Will Reveal Abuses

London, England.—Lady Simon, wife of Sir John Simon, recently as part of the forthcoming report of the commission of inquiry into Liberia would show that natives had been shipped overseas from the African coast "under conditions scarcely distinguishable from slave trading and slave raiding."

Lady Simon, addressing the members of the Conservative Women's Reform Association, said that these and other abuses had been committed not only by private persons, but also by Liberia-American negro officials, including those in highest positions.

She contended that there developed upon the United States Government and to some extent upon the British and French governments responsibility for coming to the aid of the Liberia republic for the total abolition of the system under which abuses exist.

Australians Deported

Vancouver, B.C.—Sixteen nationals of Australia and New Zealand were deported from Vancouver on the S.S. Niagara, which sailed recently. In all, 28 would-be immigrants were held up when the Niagara docked here. Six were allowed to land, and 22 were refused entry to Canada.

Ontario Liberal Convention

Toronto, Ont.—Date for the coming Liberal convention was set for December 16 and 17, at a committee meeting of Ontario Liberals. Hon. A. C. Hardy, president of the Ontario Liberal Association, presided and W. E. N. Sinclair, Ontario Liberal leader, was president.

BENNETT SUBMITS PLAN FOR EMPIRE CO-OPERATION

London, England.—"If this opportunity for closer economic relations is not seized it may not come again," declared Prime Minister R. B. Bennett when he spoke by trans-Atlantic broadcast to the citizens of Canada and mentioned the preference proposals which he placed, on behalf of the Dominion Government, before the Imperial Conference.

"I shall not refer to the reception of our proposal has received," said Mr. Bennett. "In the near future it will either be accepted or rejected. We can only await the decision. It will be a momentous one, for I believe and believing, I consider it my duty to say, that if this opportunity for closer economic relations is not seized it may not come again."

"This, I need not tell you," pursued the Canadian prime minister, "is in no sense intended as a threat. It is rather a prediction which, happily, I believe to be true. For we must all have regard for the basic changes in the conditions of world trade and realize that in this age of great industrialization and fierce competition the old rules, which in their time were good rules, may very well now be, if they are followed, sign-posts of commercial disaster."

As all the peoples of the Empire just now had their troubles, Mr. Bennett believed it would be the part of wisdom that we should come together and search out means by which there may be for us all a new and greater prosperity."

The prime minister spoke of the common traditions and principles of justice and fair dealing which bound the British nations together. He spoke of the great resources of Canada and recorded the resolve "to use these wisely, so that the happiness and welfare of the Canadian people may forever endure."

Mr. Bennett noted the will to common co-operation in the Empire and he thought the Imperial conferences would bring forth a plan to promote the prosperity of the whole. He cited the example of France which, after safeguarding its position to fight for foreign trade and he did not think increasing the Empire market for Empire goods would result in a decrease in the foreign market.

Mr. Bennett spoke of the wealth of Canada's resources. In its prairies, forests, mines, lakes and seas lay incalculable wealth. "It is our resolve also," Premier Bennett said, "to use it wisely, so that the happiness and welfare of the Canadian people may forever endure."

The problem was to determine what scheme of co-operation would be fair and lasting and of real aid to all who joined in it. "Any agreement based on sentiment alone," he added, "cannot be a permanent one. If I ask this country to buy our Canadian wheat, which we must and will sell in the highest and most stable market, and give you nothing but thanks in exchange for this service, you would soon tire of it. Similarly, if Canada gave you preference for your goods in her market and got nothing but your acknowledgment of their preference in return, I fear it could not long continue.

"But if there is an agreement inspired by sentiment and buttressed by definite and lasting and mutual advantages, then it will not fail, for it will be our common wish and for the benefit of each and all to support and sustain it. Under that agreement each of us will be working primarily and properly in the interest of our respective countries, and that is the only way in which we may continue to promote the prosperity of the Empire as a whole. We would as an initial step, safeguard our home markets, reduce to a minimum unemployment. We would then sell in the foreign markets the excess of our products over home consumption. By increasing the Empire market for our goods we would not, in my opinion, in any way decrease the foreign market, for successful competition is closely related to the question of production, and speaking generally, the greater the production the cheaper is the cost of production."

Erecting Windowless Factory

Accepts New Position

Hon. C. A. Dunning Appointed Vice-President Of Eastern Pleasure Resort

Montreal, Que.—Hon. C. A. Dunning, formerly minister of finance in the Dominion Government, has accepted the position of vice-president and general manager of "Lucerne-in-Quebec," a new all year pleasure resort and hotel on the Ottawa River, half way between Ottawa and Montreal. The appointment was announced by E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the organization.

"The directors of Lucerne-in-Quebec make this announcement with a great deal of satisfaction," Mr. Beatty said.

The Lucerne-in-Quebec organization recently took over the old "Papeau estate overlooking the Ottawa River, and a hotel on the log chalet plan, with numerous individual cottages, are being erected. Summer and winter sports will be among the attractions and the project aims toward the development of a year around residential resort on a club membership plan.

Seek More Cargo Space

Australian Flour Millers Facing Difficult Problem

Melbourne, Australia.—Flour millers of Victoria are facing a difficult problem in getting cargo space for flour shipments to Egypt and Europe. If there is no relief in the present situation it is likely they will charter their own ships. General rationing of cargo space is in full swing, with a shortage for cereals and flour. The reason for lack of space for flour cargoes is that vessel owners are receiving plenty of cargoes paying a higher rate.

Carman Shrine Unveiled

Dead Poet Honored In Ceremony At Native City

Fredericton, N.B.—With leaders in public life in the province and Dominion taking part in the simple but impressive ceremony, the unveiling of the granite shrine to Bliss Carman, first memorial to the dead poet, took place here in his native city on Saturday afternoon, October 18. The family burying plot in Forest Hill cemetery, where Carman's ashes were interred in a concrete tomb with state recognition in August, 1929, was the scene of the ceremony.

NEW TOWNSITE FOR CHURCHILL IS NOW POSSIBLE

Winnipeg, Man.—Settlement of the town of Churchill, Manitoba's seat on Hudson Bay, will not be possible next spring as expected, according to a statement by Charles H. Attwood, deputy minister of Mines and natural resources. Water conditions on the filled-in area, where it was planned to build the business section, have created a serious engineering problem.

Location of the townsite may be altered, it is stated, and until the engineering difficulty has been obviated date for the site-opening cannot be set. Permanently frozen subsoil at the Bay port offers difficulties hitherto unencountered in municipal development, it is pointed out.

"The Dominion Government is busily engaged in building port facilities, railway terminals and, in transferring to the province the portion of Churchill townsite not required for the dock and railway facilities, agreed to fill with gravel and sand the lower-lying flats between the railway and the higher escarpment to the east," said Mr. Attwood.

The Dominion has fulfilled its agreement and in that part of the townsite selected as the business centre has already deposited some 40,000 yards of gravel with the object of preparing a site suitable for the business section of the town.

"During the summer plans for the townsite were prepared and recently the provincial government engineers have completed staking out this portion of the townsite, but in so doing they now report that water conditions are such that make the filled-in area unsuitable as a townsite until such times as some methods or means are devised to provide proper drainage in the perpetually frozen sub-soil, through which there is no seepage."

"Until such time as further studies and investigations can be made to solve the problem peculiar to Port Churchill and to provide municipal utilities and services in the town, the province considers the interests of the public are best met by delaying the opening up of the townsite until these problems are solved."

IS OPTIMISTIC OVER FUTURE OF WORLD TRADE

London, England.—Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Labour Chancellor of the Exchequer and avowed free trader, expressed at a banquet a feeling of optimism about the future of world trade in general and British trade in particular.

Despite the heavy burden of unemployment, which he said, was costing the nation about $500,000,000 annually, he prophesied a better conclusion for the financial year than had been predicted. He asked parliament to deal with the cost of unemployment by putting "the insurance fund upon an insurance basis."

Mr. Snowden addressed a banquet at which there were present the governor and the directors of the Bank of England and leading bankers and merchants of the city of London.

"I look forward to the time, which I am quite confident will come, when not only the magnitude of the trade of this country but the magnitude of the trade of the world, will be of a volume which we are not able to conceive today."

Deprecating the "spirit of pessimism in Britain," the chancellor said that it was a different spirit that triumphed in the past over difficulties as great as those with which the country is faced today.

"A hundred years ago things were quite as bad, or worse, as they are today. But during changes and the next eighty years marked the greatest period of prosperity and the greatest advance in the history of this country."

"Times will change again. Undoubtedly we are now suffering from some of the other great industrial countries of the world. During the past six months we have maintained a larger proportion of our production than Germany or the United States."

The cost of unemployment to the nation, Mr. Snowden said, was disturbing him almost beyond measure. He estimated from various sources the cost of unemployment at 1,100,000 sterling annually ($500,000,000), a necessary but at the same time unremunerative expenditure. "The exchequer expenditure has been raised, and I have to find this year $2,000,000 (about $105,000,000) in order to finance the large number of unemployed persons who have no insurable qualifications."

"I think it is the duty of parliament to face this problem and to put the insurance fund upon an insurance basis."

Mr. Snowden said he intended to do everything possible to avoid the imposition of additional taxes. He prophesied that the ending of the financial year would be less disheartening than had been generally believed.

Starting Branch Line Work

C.P.R. Plans Hundred Miles Of Construction In Saskatchewan

Winnipeg, Man.—Immediate work on one hundred miles of new rail construction in Saskatchewan was forehanded by D. C. Coleman, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in announcing award of four grading contracts which form a portion of the company's advanced construction programme referred to by President E. W. Beatty, K.C., while on his western tour recently.

Advancement of this and other construction work now in process of planning, has in mind the desirability of providing some relief to the agricultural industry by furnishing work for farmers and their draft animals and the absorption of as much as possible of the surplus labor in the towns and cities.

Honor Memory Of Virgil

All Italy Celebrated Anniversary Of Poet's Birth

Mantua, Italy.—All Italy celebrated the 2,000th anniversary of the birth of the poet Virgil. Mantua, where he was born, Naples, where he lived and wrote; Rome, where he enjoyed the protection and friendship of the Emperor Augustus; and Brindisi, where he died, all joined in rendering the celebration a fit tribute to the immortal memory of the poet.

His birthday was registered in the calendar as a Saint's Day and devotees worshipped at his tomb as at a shrine.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

A clergyman was calling on some of the people whose names in the census indicated they belonged to his church, though they had rarely or ever been noticed at services. The reason given by one as an excuse for not giving his share of support was that he could stay home and hear the service on the radio. When asked who baptized the children, and if the radio would do that, he said he hoped to never have any more to baptize. Being told that death would surely come, and the radio could not bury him, he was non-plussed.

There are many like him. People who never darken a church door from the time of their marriage till they are carried in for a burial service are legion. Again there are those who consider if they send the children to Sunday school they are fulfilling their duty. And in the meantime there are the faithful who by their donations and work keep the church going. A man or a woman will often be a devoted lodge attendant, paying dues regularly and loving to have a title of Pooh-Bah. But when it comes to giving a little time and money to something far more important and worthy than any lodge, then they are simply "not there." Not even a cent a day do many give. Statistics prove it in all churches.

A mining town is as good a place as a soldiers' camp for rumors. Either can usually produce a rumor for every hour of the day, every day of the week. And they may be good or bad, according to the mood of the ingenious souls who start them on their dizzy rounds. The latest is that McGillivray will work four days steady this week, while another is that the mine will work steady next month. Everybody hopes it will prove true, but take it all with a grain of salt. What the International or West Canadian will do is purely speculative, unless another rumor has started by the time this appears in print, which is very likely.

The trouble with some speakers is that when they do have an audience they pass too many good stopping places, and the audience becomes bored and decides not to be again victimized. Someone once said that if you have anything worth telling, five minutes should be sufficient. It may be cutting it short, but it is better to leave people feeling they want to hear more than to send them to sleep or out of the door.

Another piece of advice from those who suffer from after-dinner speeches is to have the speeches before the dinner, then speakers and guests will be so anxious to eat that non-essentials in the addresses would be eliminated.

Business, the biggest show of all, must go on, for the necessities of each day must be provided for. By meeting each day's problems courageously, promptly and with enthusiasm, the difficulties of the future will be met more than half-way. There is joy in overcoming obstacles; there is misery in defeat.

Business is built on goodwill and fair dealing—not by price-cutting to the point of murderous competition and the sacrifice of goodwill. Often more is lost than the few cents gained at the time. Some can see no further than their store or workshop door.

WHOM DO YOU PURCHASE FROM?

The Journal for several weeks has been giving a column in the interests of home buying. Recently we discovered an instance of printing orders being given to a Toronto firm which might have been handled through The Journal office. Multiply the amount of the cost of this order 15 or 20 times, and there would have been sufficient work in it to have given a local printer three or four months work. This local printer in turn would be buying from local stores, consuming his share of things to eat, and the printing office would have been using heat, light and power to produce the work. The money would have circulated several times over in local channels. Instead it went away at one fell swoop and no local tradesmen received any benefit. No part of it went to pay local taxes.

Even the parties who purchased the goods would have received some of it back in local trade had it been spent locally. The incident is pointed out to show how the community loses by purchasing from distant cities printing which could be bought at home. You cannot deprive people of earning a living and at the same time expect them to purchase the goods others may have to sell.

The quickest way to send your home town to the "bow-wows" is to send away the money you earn locally to purchase goods from the cities. It reminds one of trying to keep a horse to haul the wagon and slowly starving him to death by not feeding him oats.

France and America

Represented in Film

France and America are liberally represented in "The Big Pond," Paramount's comedy drama with music which comes to the Palace Theatre for 3 days beginning on Thursday Oct. 23.

The star is Maurice Chevalier, former idol of Paris, but new idol of America. He plays the part of an ambitious Frenchman who makes good in an American chewing gum factory. The leading lady is Claudette Colbert, American stage and screen favorite. She plays the role of an American daughter of wealth who meets Chevalier while travelling in Venice. Miss Colbert was born in Paris, and lived there until her early teens when she came to New York.

"The Big Pond" is Chevalier's third American picture. It follows his successes in "Innocents of Paris" and "The Love Parade."

UNDER CONTROL OR NO CONTROL?

UNDER CONTROL: with beer being sold by the reputable licensed hotels under government supervision.
NO CONTROL: with bootleggers running rampant as in the old prohibition days.

Reasons why you should NOT sign the prohibition petition urging the government to abolish the sale of beer by the glass or bottle, thus doing away with the beer rooms, clubs and canteens.

1. The proposal to disturb the act comes from a small body of people whose social theories have not withstood the test of actual experience.
2. The Trades and Labor Congress are on record as being in favor of the sale of beer by the glass.
3. By virtue of the local option provisions of the act, communities may extinguish a license when a majority of public opinion so expresses itself.
4. No license has been withdrawn as a result of a local option vote either in 1929 or 1930, though licenses attacked were at points where conditions appeared to the prohibitionists, as favorable to a dry result.
5. In a total of 58 local option votes taken since the act came into force only four licenses have been cancelled as a result of votes; and these licenses were, in every case, adversely affected by peculiar local influence.
6. Absence of criticism at the last two provincial elections.
7. Hotel accommodation, particularly at country points, has improved as a direct result of the act, to a standard unequalled in any other province.
8. The general endorsement of the act by the travelling public and the willingness of the public generally to assist in enforcing the act by giving information regarding infractions and interdicting those needing protection from their own weakness.
9. Bootlegging and moonshining have been eliminated as remunerative pursuits. This, together with strict government control, has placed all intoxicating liquor beyond the reach of minors; fewer cases of intoxication in the police courts, in spite of a considerable increase in population. Leave the police of the province free to perform their natural functions, that of protecting the people, not taking up their time trying to enforce what has proved to be unenforceable legislation. Remember you cannot legislate men's minds, because they will never obey a law they do not respect. This was proven in prohibition days.
10. The operation of the act provides a large public revenue (4½ cents of every 10c expended) this has helped to increase the general revenue of the province and prevent increased taxation. Formerly such revenue went to the bootleggers and moonshiners.
11. Official reports commend the act as eminently practical. They contain no important criticism of the act's clauses. Police reports indicate a continuous improvement in the general state of law and order.
12. The real motive prompting the petition is to render the act unworkable by eliminating the retail sale of beer by the glass or bottle; the ultimate aim being a return to total prohibition.

If the beer rooms and clubs are abolished what does the Prohibition Party suggest to take their place? Is it to be liquor for the wealthy and prohibition for the worker?

The Moderation League of Alberta.

DO YOU SUFFER FROM CONSTIPATION?

Countless remedies are advertised for constipation. Many relieve for the moment but they are habit forming and must be continued. Others contain calomel and dangerous mineral drugs, which remain in the system, settle in the joints and cause aches and pains. Some laxative purgatives which cramp and grip and leave a depressed after effect. Avoid irritating oils which only irritate the intestines and encourage nature's machinery to become lazy.

A purely vegetable medicine such as Carter's Little Liver Pills, gently touches the liver, life starts to flow, the bowels move again, the intestines are thoroughly cleansed and constipation poisons pass away. The stomach, liver and bowels are now active and the system enjoys a real tonic effect. All druggists 25c and 75c red packs.

Advertising Is Good Business And Is Especially Necessary In Times Of Depression

It is a curious fact that the art of advertising at home is on as high a plane as in any country in the world—but manufacturers and merchants do not seem to have developed the faculty of showing the rest of the world how really good their products are. British traders are inclined, when had times prevail, to reduce costs by cutting down advertising, a procedure which has been proved time and again to be against all the principles of good business. As was mentioned in a recent article contributed to our columns by a local advertising specialist: "Among experienced advertisers today, it has become an established policy to redouble efforts in bad times, because of the actual results which have been derived in so many instances from the adoption of this policy."—Hong Kong Press.

PRETTY DRAPE

All Tingey models are created and sketched in Paris and the patterns are made in New York.

Delightful draped effects mark many of the new bodice and skirt effects, giving almost Greek grace to the youthful dresses.

The model illustrated for today's pattern has a new and charming collar. It forms a pretty drape on one side and is caught with a modern brooch or a button, preferably a jeweled one if the material is rich like satin, crepe-de-chine, marocain, chiffon velvet, etc. The model would also cut charmingly in a faceted velvet of which some lovely new designs are to be seen.

To be in keeping with the bodice trim, the skirt drapes prettily on one side where the weight of the fullness of stuff just causes the merest dip at the point. The belt is narrow and of self tissue.

This pattern may be obtained in sizes 14 to 20 and 34 to 42. It is ready for immediate delivery. It is hand cut.

Send 25 cents (in stamp or coin) to Fashion Bureau. Write carefully and plainly your name and full address, the number of the pattern and the size you want.

Should Check Up Unemployed

Some May Not Be Deserving Of Government Relief

Unemployment figures in urban centres are augmented each winter through the migration of men who work steadily on farms in the summer and rather than accept a smaller wage for the winter months or perhaps merely comfortable board they journeyed cityward in the hope of sharing in the jobs handed out by benevolent city councils. Urban municipalities should keep a close check on these migrants and refuse to increase the burden upon their municipalities and the country at large by maintaining these men in semi-idleness for five months out of the year.

It will be grossly unfair to taxpayers everywhere if part of the twenty million dollars appropriated by the Dominion Government and the thousands of dollars that are added to it by the provinces and municipalities is used to maintain the migratory class of laborer who has been offered winter employment and turns it down in order to share in the millions voted for unemployment relief.—Farmer's Advocate.

SCALLOPED TOMATOES

Drain one can tomatoes from some of their liquor. Season with salt, pepper, a few drops of onion juice, and 2 teaspoons sugar. Cover the bottom of a buttered baking dish with buttered bread crumbs, cover with tomatoes and sprinkle top thickly with buttered crumbs. Bake in a hot oven until crumbs are brown.

Advocates Clothing Reform

College Professor Thinks Men Should Wear Dresses

Men should wear dresses, Prof. Albert Bachem, of the University of Illinois College of Medicine, advises.

For health and comfort the ideal garment for men would be loose and flowing, without binding collar or belt, he told the American Physician Therapy Association recently.

"We men, under our garments," he said, "are practically always living in a tropical climate. Women's clothing is much more reasonable. There are two ways I would suggest to improve our clothing. Either it could be made more porous and consist possibly of one layer, or it could be worn very loosely."

Yukon Big Game

Yukon Territory, Canada, is the paradise of big game hunters and no place on the North American continent today offers greater inducements both for the variety of big game and for the dimensions of the trophies to be secured. Mountain sheep, moose, goat, caribou, and bear are numerous. The moose are of the "giant" species, and bear includes black, brown and grizzly.

Manitoba Stone For Edmonton

The final shipment of Tyndall stone, from the Tyndall quarries in Manitoba, to Edmonton in connection with the $250,000 contract for the Alberta Provincial buildings at Edmonton, has been made ahead of schedule.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON OCTOBER 26

WORLD'S TEMPERANCE SUNDAY—SPIRITUAL WEAPONS IN A WORLD WAR

Golden Text: "Every man that striveth in the games exerciseth self-control in all things."—Corinthians 9:25.

Lesson: Galatians 5:13-26.
Devotional Reading: Romans 14:13-21.

Explanations and Comments

Christian Freedom, verse 13.—"Brethren," wrote Paul to the Galatians, "you are free from the Law, but Christian freedom does not mean that you can do as you please." Liberty and license are not synonymous. Do not use your freedom as a license for indulging your lower impulses, but serve one another in love. "Flesh" and "sin" are not the same thing. The element of man's nature which is opposed to goodness and makes for evil. It signifies the entire potency of sin.

The Christian Love, verses 14, 15. Through loving service for others, you will not fulfill the desire of your evil nature, for the evil nature and the Holy Spirit are antagonistic. The Spirit strives to prevent your obeying your evil nature, and your evil nature strives to hinder you from obeying the Spirit, for they are at warfare one with the other, and prevent your doing what you would. Paul's theory seems to be that man's glory lies in his will. In him, there are two hostile forces, the flesh seeks ascendancy, urging him to choose the things he likes. The Spirit urges him to unite himself with God and things divine, to use his will to govern his life according to spiritual motives.

The Final Counsel, verses 25, 26.—If we live by the Spirit, by the Spirit let us walk. Walking by the Spirit is the effect of living by the Spirit. If the Divine Spirit has control of our spirit, then we are living righteously.

Less Crime In Britain

Several Prisons Are Closed For Lack Of Occupants

Crime in Great Britain has deteriorated so much that prisons are operating far below capacity, and several have actually closed for lack of occupants, states Dr. Higgins, medical officer of the prison in Liverpool, who arrived in New York recently. He attributed the decrease in crime to the system of swift justice, strict laws, requiring the closing of saloons at certain hours, and to the fact that a prisoner or a person found for an offence is kept under close surveillance after his release or payment of the fine.

There was great excitement aboard the liner.

"Man overboard!" was the cry. "Gentlemen overboard, if you please," said Mrs. De Snobbs. "That's my husband."

Finds Use For Muskeg

May Establish Industry To Produce Insulating Material

An American company with headquarters at Minneapolis, is investigating commercial uses for the northern muskegs with a view of establishing an industry to produce insulating material. While the prospect of using muskeg as an insulating material is something new to the majority of citizens of Canada, it is an old trick of the veteran prospectors in this area.

But hundreds of log cabins of trappers and prospectors in the northern areas of Manitoba, and Saskatchewan have been packed with the bog material for years, keeping out both the freezing blasts of the northern winds and the burning sun of northern Manitoba to the entire satisfaction of the owner of the cabin.

No local information can be obtained regarding the investigations by the American firm of the industrial use of muskeg, but early in the spring a substantial shipment of the muskeg left here for the south.

Started In Small Way

The dahilia began its spectacular career most modestly in 1779 when a few seeds were sent from Mexico to Madrid. By 1841 some 1,200 varieties had sprung from this little packet of seeds—not bulbs—"a truly remarkable example," says Dr. Howe of a plant's capacity for variation when aided by man." Today more than 8,000 varieties are in cultivation, thousands have been discarded and there is a dahilia society in every state.

Starts Mystery Flight

Great Secrecy Surrounds Destination

Mrs. Victor Bruce, British woman aviator, has started from Heston, Middlesex, air park, on a mystery flight in her single-seater Bluebird aeroplane.

The greatest secrecy surrounded her destination. One report credited her with the intention of flying east across Europe to Persia, India, China, and Japan. Another said that she was flying to Alexandria and then down to Cape Town.

There was still another report that said she was flying around the world and would be gone three years.

When coffee was introduced into Europe as a novelty, it was said to be an effective remedy against hysteria and toothache.

Too much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, it is quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms, such as headaches, gas, heartburn, etc., will disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do this—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine, prescribed by doctors for conditions since last you came. Couldn't stand the noise from that railroad, but no place in ever got to seem home to me but the house where I lived with my old woman. This your lady, Nick?

Nick grinned, and turned to Gay with the familiar light in his blue eyes again.

"Gay, I want you to know Mr. Bartlett, a good friend of mine. This is my wife, Mr. Bartlett. I've been married since last you saw me. We're doing a little trip."

The old man lowered his spectacles and squinted up out of near-sighted eyes.

"Well, well, Pleasant time to be starting. Some like fall, but I say, give me spring every time. Spring is an apple blossom. Ain't nothing prettier where you ain't put on your over night?"

"We haven't made any plans. That is, we've started rather suddenly and—"

"I see," interrupted Mr. Bartlett. "That's the way to do. That's the way we start out forty years ago, and my old woman; only we went behind an old white house. Say, why not use any camp?"

Nick stared a minute. "You mean the only little cabin on the hillside? The place I found you when I brought over that mortgage for you to sign?"

His voice was eager, and the old man beamed.

"That's it. Awful pretty place to stop. I was there yesterday evening. I had the fire, took up a lot of canned goods, think maybe I'd be going to stay a day or so. May need a mile of dustin', but gorry! so does the Central House! You're welcome to stay long as you want to, Nick. That is, if your wife'd like it."

"You would, wouldn't you, Gay?" asked Nick eagerly. "It's the snuggest little place you ever saw, with a glorious view of the White Mountains from the porch. Of course, if you'd rather go to a hotel—" he added doubtfully, but Gay, who had regained her composure during this conversation, reassured him.

"It sounds beautiful. I'd like it much better than a hotel, and—"

"Well, that settles it," interrupted the old man quickly. "Now if you take my umbrella (I had a sunstroke once, my man, and never traveled without it), I'll hang onto the rummies' board and you can carry me back to the house three days from the corner, Nick, the white one, and I'll give you the key. No, my man, don't move. I like ridin' on the rummies' board. Makes me feel like a boy. It's lucky I went yesterday and aired her out. The bed's all made, my man, and my extra blankets in the chest. I'll give you a jar of milk and some eggs."

He continued to rattle on, planning for them as happily as if they were his children. It was, perhaps, the best thing that could have happened to them at that moment. They brought them back to a sane and normal world, after that torturing ceremony in the office of the Justice of the Peace. When they left, Mr. Bartlett waving a vigorous farewell from his front porch, they were themselves again.

"That old man does a lot of business with the bank," Nick explained when they turned a corner. "Rich as mud, he is, and quite a character. Mr. Maxwell used to send me over to get his signatures, and for some reason the old codger took a fancy to me. Don't know why, except that I used to jolly him. Once I spent a whole day with him at his camp. Oh, Gay! I hope you'll like it the way I did! it may alone—"

He stopped abruptly, and drew her attention to some budding violets. A silence fell upon them, but it was a silence of understanding, not constraint. Once, indeed, Nick lifted the hand that wore his ring, slipping it beneath his own upon the steering wheel; and the act brought Gay a sense of security and well-being.

But they were children again when they explored the cabin. Nick declared that it was even more delightful than he remembered it; and insisted, with an ardent glance that brought color to Gay's cheeks, that the added charm was due to present circumstance.

"It's—perfect," she agreed.

They had finished their supper and stood together in the doorway, looking down through the pines that guarded their hearthstone, to where green woodlands under gleaming meadows—where quiet lakes gleamed dully in the twilight, and mountains, blue and majestic, were silhouetted against the sky. The silence deepened. A star shone out—and then another. Gay drew a tremulous breath.

"I feel—like a bird in its nest."

Nick's arm went round her shoulders, drawing her closer.

"A bird in its nest," he echoed. "Well—"

He dropped the protecting arm, and faced her suddenly. "Gay—what have you thought of me all day? It came to me there in that abominable office, when—when you wouldn't take us on a picnic, how I always saved the choicest morsels for the last? I think, dear, it was that quality in my make-up, which kept me from kissing you today when I was tempted. I thought: 'Till wait. Our first kiss shall be part of our wedding ceremony.' 'Ceremony' in that horrible place! Oh, Gay, don't you know that it hurts me as much as ever it hurt you? I thought: 'If only she'll look into my eyes I'll make her understand.' But you didn't look, dear, and of course I couldn't kiss you there! And when we got outside, it was hard to speak. I was scared, honestly, scared of what you must be thinking. Gay—dearest—let's forget it, and—"

"Forget—our wedding?"

"Yes, if you call that miserable affair a wedding. I don't. I think it takes something more than a slovenly Justice of the Peace, and the signatures of a gum-chewing girl and a regular clock, to make a marriage. God's a good enough witness for me, Gay; and I promise you now that I'll love you and honor you—and be true to you, dear, 'till death us do part."

His eyes met hers in a long and steel-firm look.

Mutely, she stretched out her hands, and holding them in a warm clasp against his heart, Nick kissed her.

CHAPTER III.

A week later they were on their way, though strangely, it was Nick who protested at a change when Gay suggested that they had accepted Mr. Bartlett's hospitality long enough. She was seated on a grove of birch, a pine tree, while a boy lay at her feet, idly running the brown needles through his fingers.

"But I could stay here forever!" he exclaimed, and his regret at leaving "The Bird's Nest," as Gay had christened their air stopping place among the trees, was so apparent that the girl smiled.

"Forever?" she queried. "And what's to become of the ends of the earth you were seeking?"

He straightened up, looking at her with what she secretly called his "new look"—not the comradely look she had grown up with, but something deeper.

"It sounds rather far away—the ends of the earth," he admitted. "I won't say that it doesn't call me, but in the last week I've discovered qualities I didn't know that I possessed. Perhaps I'm becoming tamed! If I'd had the sense to discover you before, Gay, we'd be living contentedly in my late uncle's house on Elm Street, and you'd be kissing me good-bye each morning at eight-fifteen, when I started for the bank."

Holds Unusual Degree

Canadian Girl Is Master Of Science In Aeronautical Engineering

Miss Elsie Gregory MacGill of Vancouver, can now write the letters M.S.E. after her name besides the more familiar B.A. and B.Sc., for she graduated not long ago from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, with the degree of master of science in aeronautical engineering.

When Miss MacGill entered the graduate school of Michigan, she already had the degree of bachelor of science from the University of British Columbia, and another degree in engineering from the University of Toronto.

Toronto fellow graduates will recall her as the only girl student at the school of practical science, and when she graduated in engineering, a specially small iron ring had to be made for her finger, as none of the regulation patterns were of any use in this emergency. It was Miss MacGill's intention to be an electrical engineer, but later this young British Columbia turned to aeronautics.

Professor Felix Pawlowski, who holds the chair in aeronautical engineering in the University of Michigan, says that during her course at Ann Arbor, Miss MacGill displayed not only admirable qualifications, but also "rather an unusual ability for engineering in general."

Her work was of such high standing, and she was so generally appreciated by her professors, that in spite of the fact that her health broke down a month before the end of her scholastic year, thus interfering with some of the duties assigned to her, "everybody, nevertheless was satisfied that she received the degree."

MacGill is particularly interested in design of aeroplanes, having already had a certain amount of experience in this direction which she acquired before going to Ann Arbor, and she is planning to continue this work with the aeronautical industries as soon as her health permits renewed activities.

The most interesting fact in connection with the brilliant Canadian girl is that she is the first woman on this continent to hold a degree in aeronautical engineering, "and very likely," says Professor Pawlowski, "the only one in the world at the present time." According to his knowledge, the professor adds, there are only two women with proper theoretical training in Europe—one in England and the other in Poland—engaged in aero-dynamic research of rather mathematical character. These two women, however, have no degrees in aeronautical engineering.

Innovation On Liner

Passengers Can Talk Direct To Europe Or America

Direct conversation by wireless telephony from passengers' bunks to Europe or to the North American continent while en route will be one of the principal features of the "Empress of Britain," gigantic Canadian liner to be completed June, 1931, according to W. H. Annable, assistant steamship passenger traffic manager, Canadian Pacific Railway.

It is expected that the 42,000-ton giantess will occupy only five days on the regular Southampton-Quebec run, and is scheduled for a cruise of the world next year.

Canadian Egg-Laying Contest

The pen of Barred Plymouth Rocks entered by Mrs. W. J. Thompson, of Birch Hill, Saskatchewan, continues to lead in the 11th Canadian Egg Laying Contest at the Dominion Experimental Farm in Ottawa, with a score of 17,071 points. The pen is now 46.9 points ahead of the nearest competitor, with only a few points separating the second and third.

New Paving Material

City Of Calgary Experimenting With Bituminous Sands

An experiment with bituminous sands from the Fort McMurray district in Northern Alberta was being tried in the city of Calgary public works, it was stated recently by Commissioner A. G. Graves, following a visit from a representative of the company which is exploiting the sands.

About 30 tons had been ordered, he said, and some of it was already in use for crossings, sidewalks, and so forth. It had been found necessary to mix it with sand and gravel according to a formula decided upon by city chemists, but even with the added labor of mixing the product was very economical for the use to which it had been put. Commissioner Graves was not prepared to say anything just yet about the lasting qualities of the material, but said that it appeared to be giving satisfaction. Further experiments would have to be made before it was decided to extend the use of it to roads.

NO MEDICINE LIKE BABY'S OWN TABLETS

For Either the Newborn Babe Or the Growing Child

There is no other medicine to equal Baby's Own Tablets for little ones—neither is it for the newborn babe or the growing child. The Tablets always do good. They are absolutely safe from opiates or other harmful drugs and the mother can always feel safe in using them.

Concerning the Tablets, Mrs. John Armour, R.R. 1, South Monaghan, Ont., says: "We have three fine, healthy children, to whom when a medicine is needed, we have given only Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are the best medicine you can keep in any home where there are young children."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the stomach and bowels; banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fever and make everything easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or direct by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Riot Caused By Umbrellas

Indian Low Castes Carried Them For A Day

A job lot of western umbrellas and shoes caused a riot on the Laccadive Islands, 160 miles off the Malabar coast. The Koyas, an antientry of the islands, long ago decreed that they alone might go ashore and carry umbrellas but when the western shipment came in the Malams, or sailor caste, and the Melachiers, who sold coconuts, decided to try dressing up. They picked 11 Melachiers and nine Malams to defy the old edict and it was a gala day for the strutting low castes until the Koyas' chief heard about it and ordered out his spearmen. After the fight the mannequins found themselves in jail.

Minard's Liniment has a hundred uses.

There weren't so many complaints about hard times when a man didn't consider it a disgrace to go around with a patch on his pants.

"What steps ought to be taken," asks a writer, "to reduce the number of street accidents?" We suggest long, quick ones.

HEAD HURT?

WORK won't wait for a headache to wear off. Don't look for sympathy at such times, but get some Aspirin. It never fails.

Don't be a chronic sufferer from headaches, or any other pain. See a doctor and get at the cause. Meantime, don't play martyr. There's always quick comfort in Aspirin. It never does any harm. Isn't it foolish to suffer any needless pain? It may be only a simple headache, or it may be neuralgia or neuritis. Rheumatism. Lumbago. Aspirin is still the sensible thing to take. There is hardly any ache or pain these tablets don't relieve; they are a great comfort to women who suffer periodically; they are always to be relied on for breaking up colds.

Buy the box that says Aspirin and has Genuine Tablets printed in red. Genuine Aspirin tablets do not depress the heart. All druggists.

DEPRESSION

"I'm a different woman"

"Two years ago I began to get depressed, and everything was too much trouble for me. I was a misery to myself and everyone around me. I was advised to take Glauber's Salts by my friends who said it was the same as Kruschen but it did me no good, so at last my husband got me a bottle of Kruschen and no one would realize the different woman I am. I have been taking Kruschen now constantly for two years. My daughter also would not be without it. I have got my neighbour to take Kruschen as well and she has found its worth as she feels a different woman."

(Mrs. G. A. K.)

The common cause of depression is partial constipation—an insidious complaint because the sufferer is seldom aware of it. It means the gradual accumulation of body poisons which dull the mind, damp the spirits, sap the nervous strength and lower the whole vitality.

Kruschen Salts make constipation impossible. Therefore, if you keep to Kruschen when we meet them, meaning of melancholy; never feel "nervy" or depressed.

Little Helps For This Week

"Whosoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might."—Ecclesiastes ix. 10.

Few are needed to do the out-of-the-way tasks which startle the world, and one may be most useful just doing common-place duties, and leaving the issue with God. And when it is all over, and our feet will run no more, and our hands are helpless, and we have scarcely strength to murmur a last prayer, then we shall see that instead of needing a larger field we have left untillied many corners of our single acre, and that none of it is fit for our Master's eye were it not for the softening shadow of the Cross.—George Macdonald.

An Oil Of Merit. —Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is not a jumble of medicinal substances thrown together and pushed by advertising, but the result of the careful investigation of the healing qualities of certain oils as applied to the human body. It is a rare combination and it won and kept public favor from the first. A trial of it will carry conviction to any who doubt its power to repair and heal.

Up-Keep Is Expensive

Costs More To Run New York City Than Canada

The 1931 budget of New York City will amount to a new high record of at least $552,400,000, a survey of New York's expenses, past, present and future, indicated.

This would amount to $67,630,272 more than the budget for the current year and would be the greatest increment in the history of any city anywhere.

The entire governmental expense for the Dominion of Canada in 1929 was about $281,400,000 in round figures below the city budget that is expected in 1931.

CHAPTER II.—Continued.

Considering all it meant it was over in an incredibly few minutes, but during the entire time Gay did not look at Nick. She looked at Lincoln, not alone because his familiar visage gladdened her, but because if she kept her eyes upon him she couldn't see Joseph K. Miller's beard.

Somewhere she heard herself shaking hands with the owner of the board, and nodding drowsily to the clerk and the stenographer. Somewhere, with the help of Nick's first hand, she got down the dark stairway, and into the blinding sunshine of the spring day.

Still she didn't meet Nick's eyes, the whole performance had been a nightmare a hideous travesty of loved things. She was hurt and quivering. She glanced down at the gold ring on her fourth finger, wondered vaguely where Nick had got it, and realized at its sight that she was married married without the touch of her husband's lips. The thought that came during the whole day but Nick leaved nothing but brotherly, kindly, scorching her. Surely, had he loved her ever so little, he would have kissed her! And to let her be married in that dreadful place.

Gay didn't know that her quick breathing was almost audible. She barely knew that they were in the car again and had left the highway for a secluded street. She didn't notice that the car had stopped; but she heard Nick say, a trifle hoarsely: "Gay, darling—If I'd known—"

And just then a voice broke in upon them: a high shrill, old man's voice: "By gorry! if ain't Nick 'n' his'n!"

They both stared, to behold a little man in baggy trousers and a wide-brimmed hat. He was carrying a huge umbrella, and looked to Gay like a character from Dickens; but Nick, bearing, stretched out a cordial hand.

"Why, hello, Mr. Bartlett! Aren't you a good way from home?"

"I be and I ben't," was the enigmatic answer. "Truth is, I've moved since last you came. Couldn't stand the noise from that railroad, but no place in ever got to seem home to me but the house where I lived with my old woman. This your lady, Nick?"

May need a mile of dustin', but gorry! so does the Central House! You're welcome to stay long as you want to, Nick. That is, if your wife'd like it."

"You would, wouldn't you, Gay?" asked Nick eagerly. "It's the snuggest little place you ever saw, with a glorious view of the White Mountains from the porch. Of course, if you'd rather go to a hotel—" he added doubtfully, but Gay, who had regained her composure during this conversation, reassured him.

"It sounds beautiful. I'd like it much better than a hotel, and—"

"Well, that settles it," interrupted the old man quickly. "Now if you take my umbrella (I had a sunstroke once, my man, and never traveled without it), I'll hang onto the rummies' board and you can carry me back to the house three days from the corner, Nick, the white one, and I'll give you the key. No, my man, don't move. I like ridin' on the rummies' board. Makes me feel like a boy. It's lucky I went yesterday and aired her out. The bed's all made, my man, and my extra blankets in the chest. I'll give you a jar of milk and some eggs."

He continued to rattle on, planning for them as happily as if they were his children. It was, perhaps, the best thing that could have happened to them at that moment. They brought them back to a sane and normal world, after that torturing ceremony in the office of the Justice of the Peace. When they left, Mr. Bartlett waving a vigorous farewell from his front porch, they were themselves again.

"That old man does a lot of business with the bank," Nick explained when they turned a corner. "Rich as mud, he is, and quite a character. Mr. Maxwell used to send me over to get his signatures, and for some reason the old codger took a fancy to me. Don't know why, except that I used to jolly him. Once I spent a whole day with him at his camp. Oh, Gay! I hope you'll like it the way I did! it may alone—"

He stopped abruptly, and drew her attention to some budding violets. A silence fell upon them, but it was a silence of understanding, not constraint. Once, indeed, Nick lifted the

FIGURES NEVER LIE

(By G. F. Bouchat)

Last fall I was afforded the opportunity of checking up on a purchase of lumber from a small order house, which amused me exceedingly.

A rather prosperous farmer having decided to build a new barn interviewed the local lumber dealer with a view of obtaining his quotation on the material required. This dealer, who was a citizen of the community, spent considerable time on the grotesque plans submitted to him, and after having determined the quantities of various sizes required, cut his profit to the bone, and with an air of confidence submitted a price of $2322.80.

In tendering the quotation he also emphatically declared that he would guarantee all material to be of the very best quality and that this price would cover everything except paint and hardware.

He was promised a reply within a few days. Incidentally it might be well to mention that if he had not casually met his prospect on the street three weeks later, he would still be waiting for that reply.

When approached on the subject the farmer informed the dealer that he had received a quotation from a large outside firm of $2846.20. As he expected to pay a visit to the big city in the course of a few days on other business, he would look them up and give them the order. A saving of $287.60 was certainly not to be sneered at.

Though the fault was not his own, you can readily imagine the local dealer's disappointment in not being able to procure this large order.

As planned the farmer in due time paid his visit to the city, placed his order, and as was customary was compelled to make a deposit of approximately two-thirds on the order, namely, $2,000.00. Seven weeks after he had placed his order he received advice from the local bank manager that a sight draft attached to bill of lading, in the amount of $846.20, was being held at the bank for him. Naturally he was compelled to honor this before he could even get a glance at a single piece of the lumber in the three cars that were now on the siding for him.

It suddenly dawned on him that this firm with whom he had placed his order had used his money for over six weeks before he was notified that it had arrived. His $2,000.00 at six per cent interest represented $15.00. This cut his saving to $272.60.

As work progressed on the building he was notified by the carpenters of slight shortages here and there. He immediately wrote the company about it. The reply? Why everything had been checked into the car just as they had figured.

These little odds and ends of course he was compelled to procure from the local dealer. Upon comparison he also discovered that his little odds and ends were of much better quality. Of course he said nothing about this.

Several weeks after his barn was completed he decided to pay this firm a special visit, presented them with his receipted bill for all of these odds and ends, and tell them where to get off, if they didn't make it right. The outcome of his visit has never been divulged, but his attitude a few months ago is sufficient evidence of the results he obtained.

The local dealer has informed me that this same gentleman has decided to erect a new house. He has presented his local dealer with the plans. He asked for no quotations—asked no questions—but simply told the local dealer he would start hauling about the middle of the summer.

He evidently learned his lesson. And though it cost him a little bit of money no doubt he feels grateful for the experience.

Whether it be screen doors, or windows, storm windows or doors, sashes, frames, tar paper roofing and other building papers, remember it is just as easy for these organizations to camouflage them so that the sacrifice is barely perceptible. The only way you can detect the difference is by comparing them alongside of one another. TRY IT.

Prize winners at the Robekah whist drive last Saturday evening were Robert Pettigrew and Mrs. Yates, the latter playing as gent, and Mrs. Kryzwand and Mrs. Kilgannon. 13 tables were in play, and the usual dance was held till midnight. Interest is keen in the competition for the aggregate prizes. It is interesting to note that this is the first time Mr. Pettigrew won a prize at a whist drive.
